Today's Topics and Guests

- For our weekly Back to Basics segment we get acquainted with a traditional hobby, cooking technique or another basic element of our lifestyle. Today, Kim and Betsy learn all about candlemaking from Ann Lindblad of Old Sturbridge Village, a living history museum that depicts early New England life from 1790-1840.
- Bill Cullina, author of "Understanding Perennials," will answer all your gardening questions.
- Jeanne Martinet, author of "Life Is Friends: A Complete Guide to the Lost Art of Connecting in Person," will explain why real friends are more important than money or power -- even more important, sometimes, than family.
- Got puppy troubles? Kitty worries? Ask Dr. Marty (Martha's vet) all your pet questions!
- Looking to getaway with your loved one or the entire family? Go for a B&B weekend! Tune in to Pamela Lanier, author of "The Complete Guide to Bed and Breakfasts, Inns & Guesthouses."
- The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) estimates that the number of obsolete consumer electronics sold between 1980 and 2007 is 235 million; a total weight of 2.25 million tons! Where are these 235 million units now? 18 percent of products are collected for recycling; the rest are, unfortunately, sitting in landfills. Today, Kim and Betsy will discuss recycling computers with Jeremy Kaplan, executive editor at PCMag.com and editor at GoodCleanTech.com.
